

Pottery Workshop

“Pottery” by Mr.DalchandPrajapati, Times of India

GAST organized a workshop on "Pottery". All the students from B. Ed. and D. El. Ed. participated in the programme. The workshop was conducted by Mr.DalchandPrajapati who is well known for his exemplary contribution in the field of pottery making and clay modelling and also has been honoured with many state level awards. In the first session Mr.Dalchand introduced to the students with the brief history of Pottery Art and the prominent artists of the present day. In the second session Mr.Dalchand moulded the clay on potter's wheel to prepare a Lord Ganesha's idol, flower pots, pen stands, sparrow, frog, cup and saucer and much more. In the third session students were delighted as they had given hands on experience on the same. They realized that the pottery art is very interesting but it needs to be practiced as well. In the last student enjoyed all the sessions and expressed their gratitude to Mr.DalchandPrajapati for his efforts & keeping this art alive. As an expert in his field the students were motivated and encouraged to make articles effortlessly. The dynamic approach to make something as a piece cake made the students to participate in this workshop with open hands. The experience gained was evident by the articles the students could make under his supervision and guidance. Students participated and made different articles like pots, diyas etc. The pottery session was a delightful experience which also emphasised on the flight of our vision.
